

One Nation, One Standard: Unlocking America's Potential

About the Book

In a time of unprecedented challenges and global competition, America faces a critical crossroads. Our education system, once the envy of the world, has fallen behind, leaving our students ill-equipped to compete in the 21st-century economy. The achievement gap between disadvantaged and affluent students continues to widen, threatening the very fabric of our society.

One Nation, One Standard offers a bold and visionary solution: a comprehensive plan for education reform that will create a level playing field for all students, regardless of their background or zip code. This groundbreaking book argues that it is time for America to adopt a single, world-class standard of education for all students, from kindergarten through college.

With incisive analysis and compelling anecdotes, the authors demonstrate that a national curriculum will not only improve student achievement but also boost economic growth, reduce income inequality, and strengthen our national security. They provide a detailed blueprint for implementing this transformative change, including recommendations for:

- Establishing a national curriculum that is aligned with the needs of the global economy
- Creating a system of standardized testing that is fair and accurate
- Providing all students with access to high-quality teachers and resources
- Reforming teacher education and licensure
- Investing in early childhood education

One Nation, One Standard is a clarion call for action. It is a must-read for anyone who cares about the future of education in America and the well-being of our nation.

About the Authors

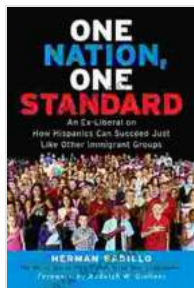

Dr. David Coleman is the president of the College Board, the organization that develops and administers the SAT and other college entrance exams. He is a leading expert on education reform and has served on numerous national commissions on education.
