Neville Goddard: A Brief Biography

Neville Goddard (1905-1972) was a Barbadian-born author and lecturer who is best known for his teachings on the power of imagination. Goddard believed that we create our own reality through our thoughts and beliefs, and that we can use our imagination to manifest our desires. He also taught that Jesus was not a historical figure, but rather a symbol of the divine within us all.

Goddard's teachings have been influential in the development of the New Thought movement, and he is considered to be one of the most important spiritual teachers of the 20th century. His book The New Christology is a must-read for anyone who is interested in a deeper understanding of Christianity and spirituality.

The New Christology

In The New Christology, Goddard argues that Jesus was not a historical figure, but rather a symbol of the divine within us all. He points to the fact that there is no historical evidence to support the existence of Jesus, and that the stories about him in the Bible are full of inconsistencies and contradictions. Goddard also argues that the idea of a historical Jesus is based on a misunderstanding of the nature of reality.

According to Goddard, reality is not a fixed and objective thing. Rather, it is a fluid and subjective thing that is constantly being created and recreated by our thoughts and beliefs. We create our own reality through our imagination, and we can use our imagination to manifest our desires.

Goddard teaches that Jesus is a symbol of the divine within us all. He is the Christ, the anointed one, who has the power to save us from our sins. However, Jesus is not a separate being from us. He is within us, and we can access his power through our imagination.

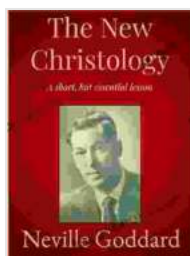

The Implications of the New Christology

The New Christology has profound implications for our understanding of Christianity and spirituality. If Jesus was not a historical figure, then what does it mean to be a Christian? And what is the meaning of salvation?

According to Goddard, being a Christian means being aware of the divine within us. It means knowing that we have the power to create our own reality and to manifest our desires. Salvation is the process of becoming aware of our divine nature and of using our power to create a better life for ourselves and for others.

The New Christology is a challenging and thought-provoking book that will change the way you think about Christianity and spirituality. It is a must-read for anyone who is interested in a deeper understanding of the meaning of life.

The New Christology of Neville Goddard is a revolutionary understanding of Jesus that will change the way you think about Christianity.
